Watch Your Language! No longer just a finger-wagging warning from your mother... “Watch Your Language” is the only locally written and produced radio word game show, presented on WMPG Community Radio. And you are invited!

On Saturday, October 22, from 4-5:30PM at Mayo Street Arts, 10 Mayo street, Portland, WMPG will record two half-hour episodes of “Watch Your Language!” for later rebroadcast. “Watch Your Language!” is a game show celebrating the complexity, beauty and downright weirdness of the English language, written and played by local wordsmiths, wits and raconteurs.

The show is hosted by Suzanne Murphy of WMPG’s public affairs program, Big Talk, written by Kate O’Halloran and Joanne Fedorocko, and played by Josh Bodwell, Alan Brewer, Margaret Cleveland, Mary Beth Davidson, Marcia Goldenberg, John Spritz, and Caroline Teschke.

The show is open to the public with a suggested donation of $5, with all proceeds to benefit WMPG’s Power Up! signal improvement campaign. Through a transmitter move and significant power increase, Power Up! will bring a strong WMPG signal to five times as many Southern Maine listeners as receive it now. The new stronger transmitter is expected to be in operation by November, 2011.

WMPG Community Radio is the broadcast radio voice of the people of southern Maine, on the FM dial at 90.9 and 104.1, or streaming online at www.wmpg.org. WMPG is committed to nurturing and presenting local voices and talent of all kinds. “Watch Your Language!” is a uniquely entertaining and stimulating program, created and performed completely by local talent.
